

Rainbow froggy's are unbreakable!
but don't enjoy it always

Rainbow froggies are unbreakable. I know for a fact they are. Because I am one. Us rainbow frogs are extremely lucky - every time someone tries to kill us, when they think we're dead we just shed a colour. I know it doesn't sound realistic, but we are forever undefeatable. We are able to live for centuries - and I have. I was around when King Henry the 8 died, I was alive when the world was new and shiny, I was even alive when I got to the year 1972. I've died a million times, but every time my skin just peeled away to a new coloured skin. In rainbow order. I've lost count of how many rainbows I've gone through. I would say around 500,000 to 959,000. It is extremely lucky. But sometimes, greedy, selfish people take advantage of us. Not for that power. But for our healing powers. We rainbow frogs can heal the sick and wounded. Even if their at 75 we can heal them. I got myself in a real mess because of these powers. It all started when I was in my home, in my little forest when I heard a groan. A desperate human groan. I rushed to find the wounded man. I eventually found it, a human with a burned foot. He saw me and said weakly, "Rainbow frog. Please help me." So I did. I bounced on his foot three times, bounced off and I had a foot healed. The man stared at his foot in awe. Then at me. You saved my life, he said shocked. He tried standing up and got to his feet. "Come with me to my house in the village. I bet your extremely thirsty. So, you can come. Just be careful of my uncle. I think he will try his evil work on you. So be careful." My mind was blown. This man was going to give me food and drink for saving him. I was thirsty, starving. The food wasn't near me, my part of the woods. He carried me for 8 hours till we finally reached the village. A small but happy village with water pots and food barrels. I stared at the food in awe. But before I could eat, people were crowding round me, pushing each other to see me. I was so surprised by all the people pushing to see me. I was delighted at the fan group, but I was desperate for water. I jumped from the mans hand, jumped from the fan group to a water bowl. I started drinking quatters, the watery drink they'd invented. But then I froze, after hearing what the little one said. "Are you enslaving him to be a rainbow frog servant?" "They make food if running," said the littelest girl looking at me. I looked at the guy. But he said, "Yes. He'll make food for us, if we force him." They gave a cheer. But I wasn't happy at all. I saw them coming towards me and thought fast. I ran up a house, and spent the next 1 hour playing chase. Finnally they stopped chasing me and left me alone. I settled down on a large house, and peacefully went to sleep. I was peacefull going to sleep, but I was determined to escape the village in morning. But a man came up. All the village people were evil. But this man, the worst. The man scooped me up, and took me to a small house / building. I was very tired, but he put me to work. I was put beside two other rainbow frogs. They both were tired of running, but weren't allowed to stop. I was immediately put to work and I hated it. But I couldn't escape. So, I was made to do that forever. 1 year passed, two years passed, three years, four, years and years of work. I was exghausted when I was let out. I found my home, and fell asleep. I wished and wished to just be a normall toad, frog who was unbreakable -but not showy. And when I woke up, I was brown. And green. I was a normall toad! I do still shed skin -but I'm green and brown. I've been like this for years. Normall life for a not normal toad.
